

I know the decimal points don't go into the decoder entities and they come out of the top-level entity. But I thought this looked cleaner and portrayed the main idea.